Founded in 1879, the Westfield Memorial Library strives to provide the Westfield community an environment that promotes a love of reading and ensures free access to ideas and information.

Library seeks to evaluate services and chart new directions with help from community focus groups

To help the Westfield Memorial Library evaluate the services that we provide and to plan for the future, the library will hold a series of focus groups over the next several months.

They will be led by a consultant from Library Development Solutions, who will help participants discuss what kind of services and programs they would like to see the library offer, what current services they like or dislike, and where the library fits into the community.

“We hope to learn how to reach the people that we’re not reaching. We’d like to critique the services that we have and learn how to improve upon them as well,” said Phil Israel, library Director.

Thus far the staff focus group has met, and groups for frequent and infrequent users, as well as older adults, have been formed.

The group for Parents of Young Children will meet Monday, October 5 at 7:30 p.m., and the Teen focus group (for all students in middle and high school) will meet Friday, October 16 at 5:30 p.m.

To register e-mail focus-groups@wmlnj.org and list the group you want to attend in the subject line, or call Kathy Muhm, Assistant Director, at 908.789.4090, option #3.

On Tuesday, October 6 at 7:00 p.m., we will hold a Community Conversation for anyone who would like to participate, but is not part of a focus group. There’s no need to sign up, just come to the meeting.

Some of the other groups that will meet are Elected Civic and Business Leaders, the Friends of the Library and the Board of Trustees. Each group will meet between 60 to 90 minutes.

Asher Sternberg smiles broadly and holds the pair of tickets that he won through the library to a summer concert of The Wiggles at the Izod Center. The performance was sponsored by Reach Out and Read, a national nonprofit organization that promotes early literacy by giving new books to children and advice to parents about the importance of reading.

Spotlight on the Youth Services Department

Kathy Muhm is our Coordinator of Youth Services. She studied languages and English Literature at the University of Colorado and completed her Master's in Library

Kathy Muhm

Science (MLS) at the University of Denver. Originally she was a reference librarian at Westfield, and then she became a children's librarian at the Springfield Library. What she finds compelling about good children's books are the same qualities that she loves in books for adults. "The best children's books are every bit as well-written, meaningful and delightful as the best adult books. Picture books are their own art form, with all the texts as carefully worded as poetry, and with illustrations that perfectly complement the text, and vice-versa."

Molly Adams was among the first class to graduate from the Rutgers University online MLS program 1½ years ago. She's found the perfect spot for her "love of books, kids, their energy and enthusiasm, and her own love of learning new things." In addition to helping select children's fiction, Molly creates the sixth grade reading list every year and makes the beautiful slides for the message board at the Circulation Desk. At home, she raises puppies for the Seeing Eye Foundation, and she brings her own therapy dog, Shadow, to the library for "Paws to Read" sessions.

Molly Adams

An employee of Westfield for 17 years, Adrienne Basso is currently a senior youth services librarian in charge of teen acquisitions and programs. What she has noticed over the years about teen literature is that, "Although it's always been issue oriented, it's now treating the important issues that teens face with more honesty and sensitivity." Adrienne earned a Master's of Science in Library and Information Services from Drexel University. She is a published author of historical romances and will be celebrating the release of her 17th book in January 2010.

Adrienne Basso

A former math teacher and school librarian in East Orange and Bedminster, Carol Buchanan earned her MLS at Rutgers. She creates the displays on the windows at the Youth Services front desk and conducts Story Hours for pre-schoolers and toddlers. "It was a challenge to learn to work with this group and to keep their attention. You have to choose the right level picture book, and you have to love the book yourself." Carol, who has a "weakness for special paper," has also run Origami workshops for teens and pop-up cards workshops for elementary schoolers.

Carol Buchanan

Library Associate Maureen Cooney answered an ad 24 years ago that said "must like children and books." That's a perfect description of this former nursery school French teacher who's taken courses in Children's Literature at Rutgers. She presents Storytimes, helps select Children's fiction and picture books, runs Creative Crafts programs and mends the books. What she likes most about the patrons here is that, "They are very book oriented. The New York Times Book Review is their bible, and on Monday morning, they're here, looking for those books." Maureen confesses that her collection of cook books, first editions of children's books, and Newbery and Caldecott award winners is taking over her home.

Maureen Cooney

Renee Rauch

Renee Rauch, who joined our staff as a pt librarian almost a year ago, has both an MBA and MLS from Rutgers. She worked as a Trust Investment Officer for ten years and went back to library school after her children were born. She is most happy when she sees a child "making a connection to a book, or a character in a book."

When she runs Tots' Storytime, she'll read four to five books and involve the audience in songs, finger play and crafts. Renee helps select picture books, and she also spends time reading plenty of chapter books, since she's also a librarian at Holy Trinity Elementary School.

While Patricia Sassoon was studying for her MLS at Pratt Institute, she interned at the New York Public Library. She described this as a "fabulous experience" and said that she "loved the diversity of the patrons and their different needs." She has also worked at the Jewish Theological Seminary in New York where she needed to read simple Hebrew. Patricia thoroughly enjoys working with children and exposing them to great books, such as two of her favorites: Charlotte's Web and The Phantom Tollbooth. Amazingly enough, one of her hobbies is reading.

Anne Hale Speakers Series to host author Arthur S. Lefkowitz

“New Jersey and the American Revolution”
Thursday, October 8
7:00 pm

The second presentation of the Anne Hale Speakers Series will highlight the work of Arthur S. Lefkowitz, author and researcher. He will speak on “New Jersey and the American Revolution” and show a fifty-minute slide presentation based on his book The Long Retreat. This book focuses on the British invasion of New Jersey in late 1776, which ended with Washington’s famous Christmas night raid on Trenton. The speaker will demonstrate that the closest the British ever came to winning a military victory in the American Revolution was at New Brunswick, New Jersey, on December 1, 1775. Please sign up at the circulation desk if you would like to attend.

Friends Museum Pass Program continues to draw patrons

With 17 museums now participating in the Museum Pass Program, library patrons continue to flock to the library to check out passes. At the end of July, 748 passes had been signed out, admitting over 2,500 patrons to some of New Jersey’s and New York’s best museums. And we’ve just added two new museums, the Morris Museum in Morristown and the Intrepid Sea, Air and Space Museum in New York. Westfield residents and members of the Friends are welcome to go to a museum—our treat!

What's New in the Reference Department

Have you discovered our Reference Department? We have so much to offer! Not only do we have close to 20 computers for your use (all of which include Internet, MS Office programs and Library Catalog capabilities), but the Reference Department also provides a multitude of databases, an electronic book collection and professional research help. Let's take a look at our newest databases:

Mango Languages

Looking to learn a new language, or gain more competence in a language you are trying to master? Mango Languages currently offers 12 language courses — Brazilian Portuguese, Spanish, Japanese, French, German, Italian, Greek, Russian, Mandarin Chinese, ESL for Polish speakers, ESL for Spanish speakers, and ESL for Brazilian Portuguese speakers — with many more on the way. Mango's online language learning system focuses on teaching actual conversation skills for a wide variety of languages. Each lesson combines real-life situations and audio from native speakers with an easy-to-follow interface and simple, clear instructions. It's so effective and easy to use, you'll be speaking a new language after just one lesson!

Jazz Music Library

This database, complimenting our current list of wonderful music databases, will be sure to satisfy jazz lovers! For online listening to thousands of jazz artists, ensembles, albums, and genres, Jazz Music Library is essential for any jazz history, performance, theory, or music appreciation course. Labels include Verve, GRP Records, Fantasy, Concord Jazz, Impulse, Jazzology and many others. The list of artists is enormous, ranging from past greats to musicians performing and recording today. Also included are Marian McPartland's Peabody Award-winning Piano Jazz Radio Broadcasts and never-before-released performances from the Monterey Jazz Festival and great jazz venues. Listen to Chicago jazz, New Orleans Jazz, 1920s jazz, big bands, acid jazz, Latin jazz and more.

American Song

American Song is an eclectic collection of music from Americans of diverse origins and all walks of life, from America's past and present. The songs are by and about American Indians, miners, immigrants, slaves, children, pioneers and cowboys. They touch topics as varied as Civil Rights, political campaigns, Prohibition, the Revolutionary War, the Civil War, anti-war protests and more. And the range of genres includes country, folk, bluegrass, Western, old time, American Indian, blues, gospel, shape note singing, doo-wop, Motown, R&B, soul, funk and others.

Contemporary

A fantastic database covering every music genre from every corner of the globe! Reggae, Balkanic jazz, African film, Bollywood, Arab swing, flamenco, klezmer, gagaku, and others can be searched and heard among the database's 50,000 tracks. A perfect complement to the library's 'Smithsonian Global Sound for Libraries' database. Visit the Reference Desk and ask the Reference Staff for help with our other databases, or pick up a flyer covering other database topics.

BUT WAIT, THERE'S MORE! Coming in October, Email Reference

Are you so busy at work or at home that you can't even call us with your questions, or get to the library? Then email us! Our professional Reference Staff will respond within 24 hours to your queries. They will ask any follow-up questions necessary and provide answers as quickly and thoroughly as possible. Please note that this email feature is specifically for Reference questions! The staff cannot respond to email requests for holds, book renewals, or putting books aside.
