Let’s say you’re at home frantically finishing up a report for school or work, and you’re trusted printer refuses to print—ever again. Don’t panic, you can now print that report remotely at the library from your laptop, smart phone or any Internet connected device. Access our website at www.wmlnj.org and click on the links for “remote printing” and follow the instructions. You’ll receive a job number, and when you arrive at the library and enter your email address at the Reference Desk printer on the second floor, your print job and its cost will appear on the screen. Feed the money—coins (no pennies) or dollar bills—into the machine, and your report appears. Black and white copies are 10¢ apiece, and color copies are 50¢.

If you are within the library using a laptop, smart phone or any Internet connected device, you can send print jobs to the Reference Desk printer as well.

“We are very happy to be offering this convenient new service from PrinterOn,” said Library Director Phil Israel. “Our patrons can now print virtually any document or web page from their Internet connected device to our library printer.

“It’s important to understand that they are not printing wirelessly,” he continued. “The system uses dedicated IP addresses. The difference is that not only can patrons print to the Reference Desk as they have always done, but they can also send a print job to the library from anywhere outside the library.”

Pay, Print and Pick up—Print remotely from anywhere at the library!
We are not ourselves
by Matthew Thomas
Wednesday, February 25
at 7:00 pm

What’s special about this book is how Thomas takes us, slowly and somewhat unexpectedly, deep inside a family battling the gray-toned middling place of their middle-class existence. At the core is Eileen Tumulty Leary, urging her complacent husband and their impressionable son forward. Along the way, lives come and go. (“Fair enough,” her mother said, and in a little while she was dead.) There are some gorgeous scenes, some taut lines (I liked the air-conditioning unit’s “indefatigable wind”), and some heartbreakers (a mother tells her son, at the funeral home, “That’s probably enough.”) It’s thrilling to see an emerging writer test and flex his voice. Then again, it’s oddly addictive to watch this family unfold, age, and devolve. Intimate, honest, and true, it’s the story of a doomed father and a flawed son and the indefatigable and loving woman who keeps them all together, even as they’re falling apart.

The Mockingbird Next Door
by Marja Mills
Wednesday, April 8 at 7:00 pm

Harper Lee, author of the “national touchstone,” To Kill a Mockingbird, withdrew from the relentless vortex of fame and never published another book. When To Kill a Mockingbird was chosen for One Book, One Chicago in 2001, Chicago Tribune reporter Mills traveled to Lee’s Alabama hometown, certain that she would never get anywhere near the author. Instead, Mills found herself living a literary fairy tale, as Alice, Harper’s older sister by 15 years, still working as an attorney in her nineties, ushered Mills into their book-filled home. Soon Mills, much to her astonishment, is watching football games, going fishing, and sharing meals with Alice, Nelle (Harper is her middle name), and their friends. When the Lees express their hope that Mills will record their reminiscences and “set the record straight,” she rents the house next door. As she portrays the exceptional Lee women and their modest, slow-paced world with awed precision, Mills creates a uniquely intimate, ruminative, and gently illuminating biographical memoir.

October Children’s Book Sale Was a Great Success!

The recent Friends’ Fourth annual children’s and teens’ book sale was a huge success, raising $2,275.60 for the library. Approximately 40 volunteers worked hard but had much fun sorting, organizing, and selling everything from baby “board books” to teen novels. Parents once again exclaimed over the ease of browsing and locating desired items. Children were sometimes found lounging on the floor—or in their parents’ laps—enjoying a new book. All unsold items were donated to worthy, charitable organizations.

Washington; Bessie Coleman, first African American female pilot; and Regina Anderson, first African American librarian in New York. You will be entertained and enlightened.
Computer Classes

For all of these Advanced level classes, you must have some computer knowledge and skill, plus mouse and typing skills.

Prezi!
Thursday, January 8
7:00 - 8:30 pm
If you want to enhance presentations (or help your children enhance theirs), then this class is for you! Prezi is a program that lets you dynamically present information. Rather than a flat slideshow, Prezi lets you zoom, spin, and travel through presentations.

Advanced Word: Using Page Layout
Thursday, February 26
7:00 - 8:30 pm
This version of our popular Advanced Word class focuses on using Word’s Page Layout and Review Ribbons. We learn about adjusting margins, page orientations, columns, watermarks, colors, and how to manipulate photographs and drawings. The class is intended for people who already know the basics of Word. You may bring your own laptop.

Genealogy on the Web! Ancestry.com, Heritage Quest, Geni, and More!
Saturday, March 14
2:00 - 3:30 pm
Ancestry.com and Heritage Quest are fantastic resources for genealogical research that family historians in the past could only dream of. Learn how to use these two databases to dig deep, efficiently, and accurately into your family’s roots! Learn also how to use Geni, a social network/genealogical wiki that lets you construct family trees, discover distant branches of your family, and even see how you are “related” to friends and famous people!

Note: Extended Hours and Extra Space for Three Nights!
Set in Singapore during the 1997 Asian financial crisis, Ilo Ilo chronicles the day-to-day drama of the Lim family - troublesome grade-schooler Jiale and his overstressed parents, Heck and Leng. Comfortably middleclass and with another baby on the way, they hire Teresa, a Filipino immigrant, as a live-in maid and nanny. An outsider in both the family and Singapore itself, Teresa initially struggles to manage Jiale's antics and find her footing in her new community. The two eventually form a unique bond, but just as Teresa becomes an unspoken part of the family, unforeseen circumstances in an uncertain economy will challenge the new normal yet again.

A self-trained cook with haute-cuisine ambitions, Jacky (thespian, singer, comedian and media personality Michael Youn) gets canned from a series of menial cooking jobs for taking exception to his customers' taste. Beatrice (Raphaëlle Agogue), Jacky's heavily pregnant girlfriend, tries to halt their financial meltdown by arranging a handyman position for him at an old folks home, but he can't resist the siren call of the kitchen...

From acclaimed director Pawel Pawlikowski comes “Ida,” a moving and intimate drama about a young novice nun in 1960s Poland who, on the verge of taking her vows, makes a shocking discovery about her family’s past during the Nazi occupation. This revelation sets Anna, now Ida, on a journey to uncover her roots and confront the truth about her family.
Winter Programs for Adults

In this workshop, Creativity Coach Wendy Rosenberg guides you through an engaging process that uses color to help you re-connect to significant memories in your life and see them through a different lens or viewpoint. After exploring your memories through word games and simple creative exercises, you will create a piece of art that honors your memories and brings them to the forefront of your mind to create a greater sense of meaning, gratitude, and personal connection this holiday season.

Memories in Full Color
Wednesday, December 3 at 7:00 pm

The six-word memoir, featured in the book, Not Quite What I was Planning: Six-word Memoirs from Writers Famous & Obscure, edited by Larry Smith, is a self-discovery exercise that helps you get to the heart of what matters most in your life. Creativity Coach Wendy Rosenberg introduces this deceptively simple art form through different exercises and techniques, inviting personal reflection, gratitude, and a new perspective on your life's journey.

Downloading Zinio Magazines
Monday, December 1 at 6:30 pm
Open to Westfield Patrons Only

Have you tried one of your Library's new services called Zinio Magazines? This interactive presentation (not a hands-on workshop) is designed to answer all your questions about the digital magazine service called Zinio. Zinio recreates a magazine page for page, including full-color pictures, intuitive navigation, key word article search and interactive elements such as audio and video. Zinio is accessible through PCs, MACs, iPhones, iPads, Androids, Kindle Fire/FireHD, Nook HD/HD+ and BlackBerry Playbook. Andrew Gross, a representative from RBdigital Recorded Books, presents this fantastic service, and goes through all the steps you need to view and download titles. A wonderful way to take advantage of your mobile device!
